HERE'S the POINT!

By SPENCE HELD

Well, it's basketball season again, and the trained storks and giraffes are cavorting on college courts from coast to coast.

Kansas has a 7-footer who is making monkeys out of his opponents by reaching up and dropping the ball into the basket while they paw the air helplessly.

This is a game for athletes? Haw! (I'm not talking about high school basketball, although you'll find an occasional goon there too. Always playing for the other team, of course.)

Many Peninsula residents were saddened by the death of Henry Gunther, 78, who taught three generations of San Diegos to swim.

His most famous pupil was Florence Chadwick... In recent years, during the summer, he came to the bayfront beach at the foot of McCall St., to teach swimming—just for fun.

In August, 1954, Mr. and Mrs. Stanford E. Steinbeck arranged a get-together of more than a score of Mr. Gunther's old friends and pupils at McCall Beach.

Little Mary Fetter brought a cupcake she had made especially for him. She carried a doll, Henrietta Gunther, which he had given her a year or two before.

Mary's swimming pal, Ann Scales, also came to the beach that day. He gave each of the little girls a prize for running down into the water and getting in up to their chins right away.

Henry Gunther liked children and probably taught thousands of them to swim during his 60 years in San Diego... He was a kindly, gentle, generous man whose spirit will linger long among his friends.

Add Pearl Harbor:

Along about Dec. 9, 1941, a couple of days after the Japanese attack, I wandered into the tower suite at the S. D. Civic Center and encountered Eleanor Roosevelt.

She was in a huddle with Mayor P. J. Benbough. They promptly clamored up when they saw me, and I decided later that Mrs. Roosevelt had flown out from Washington with The Word.

The Word: Disaster. Yeah, but not in the newspapers... Not for a year, anyhow.

Today we will close with a quotation from Ambrose Bierce: "A bore is a person who talks when you wish him to listen."

Cabrillo Program

With the approach of the Christmas season, Cabrillo School students have been busy planning the Cabrillo "Gift to the Community," Miss Grace E. Finley, principal, announced.

This annual offering, a program presented by the upper grade children, will take place in the Cabrillo auditorium Friday, Dec. 14 at 7:30 p.m. The theme, "Our Christmas Cards," will be developed through tableaux and traditional carols.

Last week, the Cabrillo School Student Council elections took place. Miss Finley announced that the officers for the mid-winter term are Tamra Platt, president; Bill Stump, vice-president; and Jay Shumaker, secretary.

Pentoney Suggests Citizens' Group To Survey Cliffs

Here's the first batch of letters to the Peninsula News in response to our query of last week, "What should be done about Sunset Cliffs?"

Editor: Obviously, in view of the many tragedies that have occurred at Sunset Cliffs over the years, some remedial steps should be taken by the City to safeguard lives.

My suggestion is that the Ocean Beach Chamber of Commerce name a citizen's committee to investigate the situation. Such a committee should include a qualified engineer willing to donate his time to assist in a survey of the Cliffs.

On the basis of the survey, recommendations could be made to the City Council for possible corrective measures. These might include additional rock fills, to counteract undermining of Sunset Cliffs Blvd., guard rails, warning signs, and landscaping. Such measures would benefit the entire community by eliminating hazardous conditions and improving the appearance of this picturesque area.

HOWARD A. PENTONEY,
President-elect, O. B. Chamber of Commerce

Editor: In reference to your article which appeared on the front page of the Peninsula News last week, here is my suggestion.

That if the City of San Diego would allow dirt and rock fillings, the same way as they have done along Harbor Drive, then this project along Sunset Cliffs could be bulldozed occasionally. It would improve this whole coast line, and it should be inexpensive to the City of San Diego.

BERNARD CALLEGARI,
USN (ret.) 4517 Santa
Monica Ave.

Editor: I have lived here nearly 20 years and I think if we "adults" can't heed the warnings, then "no trespass" signs should be posted and everyone given a ticket and a fine who goes there.

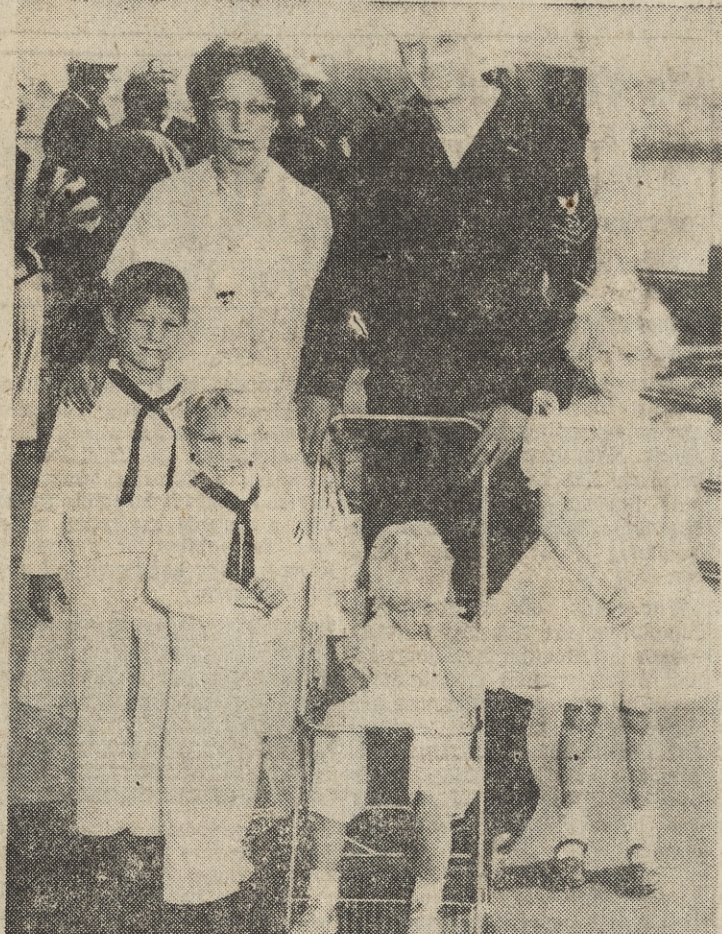

As for children going there—if people can't manage their young ones any more, their should be the loss.

The older we get the more guardians it seems we need, and why should taxpayers' money be used to "guard" us as it were.

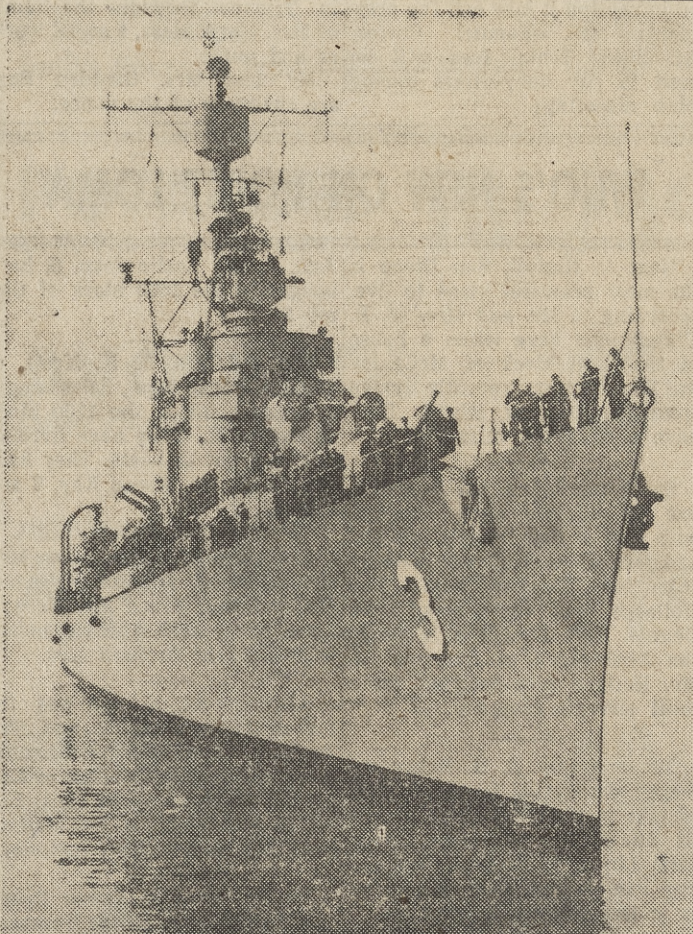

We think we are a pretty smart people, but show it less and less. A thousand times a year we hear warnings about fires, about safe driving, and yet we have bigger fires every year and kill more and more people.

Let's wake up and show we are really alive and thinking.

Dana Junior High School To Offer 'A Heavenly Lesson' December 17

One hundred and eighty-eight Dana Junior High students will help create the Christmas program that will have four performances this year, three at school assemblies and one the evening of Dec. 17 at 7:30 in the school auditorium.

The program will begin with the dimming of lights, voices of 120 boys and girls will be heard outside the auditorium, as the combined glee clubs begin the processional. Down the aisles the white-gowned teenagers, carrying flashlight candles, proceed in two toward the stage, as they sing "Oh, Come All Ye Faithful." On the stage they assembled behind a gauze curtain, and from there they perform ten more lovely Christmas numbers during the program.

"A Heavenly Lesson" is the play written this year by the second period ninth grade drama class and Mrs. Betty Hawkins, teacher-director. The 68 drama students of the two drama classes participate in the five tableaux of the play.

Roles in the four presentations will be performed by four casts

Other contributors to the success of this traditional event at Dana include the art classes of Mrs. Betty Quayle and the stage crew of Don Stanier who created the set designed by the drama class. Mr. DeVore's graphic arts class prepared the printed programs. Mrs. Veta Riegel directed the combined boys and girls glee clubs and had the assistance of David McNair who rehearsed the boys glee for the performance.

A gift bazaar and bake sale will be held during the day and following the auditorium program by members of the Parent-Teacher Association. Mrs. Donald K. McGowan is chairman of the bake sale and Mrs. Charles Rhea has charge of the bazaar.

Civic Groups Back Attack Against Drunken Driving

SACRAMENTO—A state-wide attack against drunk driving during the December holidays was assured today as local safety councils, military installations, Federal agencies and civic groups indicated an intention to back the attack against drunk driving planned by the California Highway Patrol and the State Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control.

"We are pleased with the voluntary offer to support our enforcement program and welcome the cooperative efforts of such organizations as the California Traffic Safety Foundation, Armed Services Disciplinary Boards, all local safety councils, civic groups and others," declared Patrol Commissioner B. R. Caldwell.

Last December there was an average of 71 fatal and injury traffic accidents daily in California involving a driver who had been drinking, almost 50 percent higher than the daily average of such accidents for the entire year.

"This presents a challenge which is being met by the united efforts of traffic law enforcement and public support agencies throughout California," Caldwell continued. "The enforcement program will be strong and even more effective than usual with such an array of public supporters working toward the same goal."

It's Your Business

By Cecil Candler
President, San Diego
BETTER BUSINESS BUREAU

In the public's plunge for holiday gift shopping, few realize perhaps the important part Better Business Bureaus throughout the country play in protecting individuals from the unscrupulous and safeguarding the family paycheck. You may not know this, but your San Diego Better Business Bureau, located in the Spreckels Building, plays the watchdog role for the entire county.

Thousands of inquiries and complaints are received each month at Bureau headquarters, and every written complaint is investigated. Last month, the majority of complaints covered firms selling furniture, floor coverings, home appliances, used cars, radio, TV and music sales, and automotive equipment and service.

Eight times as many inquiries as complaints were received. This is a healthy sign. When the buying public checks with the Bureau before investing and when in doubt, there is little chance of their being gipped by fly-by-nighters and sharp salesmen.

Last month, almost 1,500 display ads and nearly 1,000 classified ads were reviewed, and 27 television and 19 radio ads were monitored. Slightly over 100 ads were questioned directly with advertisers and five ads were referred to law enforcement agencies. Such vigilance continues.

This is the season of the year when bait advertising flourishes. This is the practice of offering merchandise at low, alluring prices to coax a customer into a store, and then switching to higher, misrepresented and usually over-priced merchandise to clinch the sale.

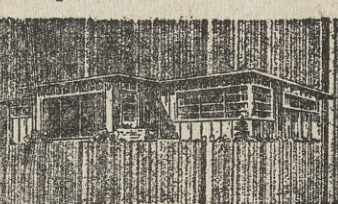

Another vicious racket is the false comparative type of advertising. Here artificial mark-ups are made to provide a basis for fictitious mark-downs or comparative prices.

Actually, there is nothing wrong with special sales as long as comparisons are factual and honest. Bargain hunters, however, often fall easy prey to such ads when prepared by unscrupulous dealers.

Handy Jim's Fix-It-Tips For the Home

Textured Siding Gives Character to House
A TEXTURED house siding gives the building character sometimes missing when unpainted boards are used. Rapidly becoming a favorite because of its rich texture is Masonite Ridgeline, a durable hardboard which may be painted or stained to bring out the handsome but subdued pattern.

This hardboard siding has a linear texture in a restrained combed ridge effect. Ridgeline panels are four feet wide, one-quarter inch thick and up to 16 feet long. This siding also comes in strips for horizontal application. Here the widths are 12" and 16". Those desiring shingle sizes also may have this beautiful siding.

Used on exteriors in panel form, Ridgeline may be installed with or without battens. The unusual texture of this material has prompted its use by interior decorators, who have specified its application indoors as accent walls or "interest areas."

Like Tempered Presdwood, the new siding material has unusual strength, durability and resistance to all types of weather. Its versatility is making it a favorite among builders.

WHO'S NEW ON POINT LOMA

Next to Hawaii, San Diego is the most beautiful place to live, according to Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Ulmer, who have taken a house in the 3000 block of McCauley St. The Ulmers recently came from the tropical island. They have a daughter, Susan, 7.

South Bend, Ind. has its points but its climate can't compare with that of San Diego's, say Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Holland, recently from the "Hoosier State." The Hollands and their small son, Dennis, have bought a home in the 3400 block of Garrison St. Mr. Holland is a designer for a local aircraft company.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Baker are busy redecorating the home they bought in the 3700 block of Poe St. The Bakers have four daughters: Linda, 7; Paula, 3; Leila, 2 and Pamela, 5 months. Mr. Baker is in the real estate business.

Ann, 9, and Leslie Jean, 6, have bought in the 1900 block of Guizot St.

Mr. and Mrs. K. K. Krull, of 4270 Coronado Ave., have bought a larger home in the 1200 block of Moana St. They have lived in this area for 13 years. They have two daughters, Karen Kay, 7 and Pamela, 3.

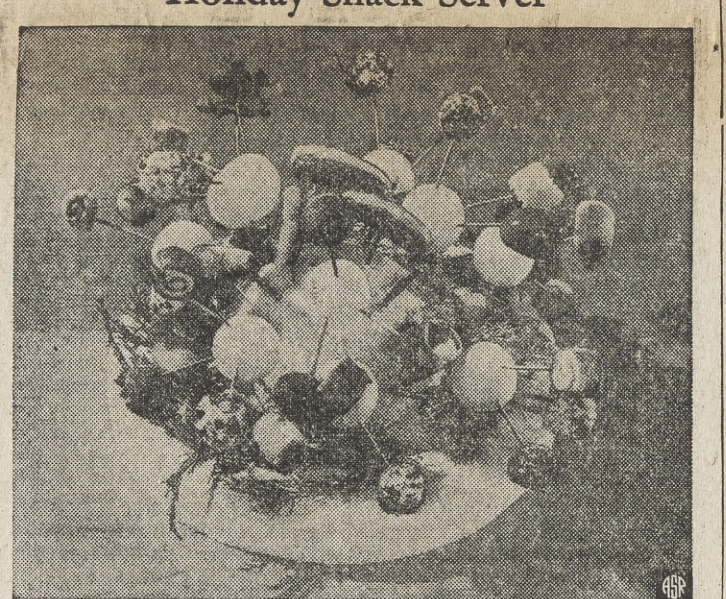

From Detroit, Mich. come Mrs. Krull's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce MacPherson. They have taken a home in the 4700 block of Orchard Ave.

Alamogordo, N. M. was the former address of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Mattson, who have bought a home in the 2000 block of Guizot St. They have two sons, Larry, 10 and Danny, 3. Mr. Mattson is with a local aircraft company.

"After living in Ocean Beach, you just can't take Houston's climate," said Mrs. Delmer Platt, who has recently returned here with Mr. Platt and their two children, Barbara Ann and Jeffrey.

"We were in Houston during the hot season, which was unbearable unless you stayed in an air-conditioned building all the time," Mrs. Platt said. They have taken a home in the 4300 block of Narragansett St.

Holiday Snack Server

Most Christmas fixins are planned weeks ahead so guests will always be welcome and snacks and holiday cookies are always on hand. However, all the delicious foods shouldn't be reserved for guests. You'll find it's as much fun to have some surprise snacks when your family is home watching TV in the evening.

And while everyone is decorating the Christmas tree or wrapping gifts they'll love steaming chocolate to drink with tasty Christmas snacks to nibble on. Simple, easy to make snack foods become something special when they're radiating from a snowball centerpiece you can make yourself.

You'll find the white plastic foam balls hold party picks firmly in place and Christmas greens and decorative tree balls add a festive touch to the tablepiece. Use it for a party buffet or on the coffee table for before-dinner hors d'oeuvres. Fresh garden flowers replacing the evergreen make it a year around decoration.

At your own family party serve gay miniature kabobs on multi-colored toothpicks. Skewer one stuffed olive, a minced ham cube, and a cheese circle all topped with a tangy pickled onion. Be sure to have plenty of cream cheese balls rolled in bits of dried beef and crown over picks with party sausage and all-time favorites, carrot curls and ripe olives.

You'll find the lightweight plastic foam used for the snack holder in sheet form and balls at your local variety store. For the circular base invert a dinner plate on a one-inch thick sheet and cut around it with a sharp paring knife. Then with adhesive glue or toothpicks attach the large half ball (also cut in half with a knife) to the base. For extra sparkle brush glue on the balls and sprinkle with glitter.

Yule Seal Sunday To Be Observed

Church leaders in San Diego County will commemorate Christmas Seal Sunday from their pulpits Sunday, urging members of their congregations to support the fight against tuberculosis through the purchase and use of Christmas Seals on all their holiday greetings and gift packages.

With the endorsement of major church organizations in the county, an estimated 600 churches are being invited to lend their support to the annual fund campaign that finances a year-around program to combat what is still a serious health problem.

Calling on their congregations to join the campaign, church leaders will note that Christmas Seals help fight TB and carry a truly Christian message of concern for the public health and willingness to help society help solve one of its own problems.

Emphasis will be on the use of Christmas Seals and this Christian message, as well as on the financial contribution in this, the sole fund-raising effort of the San Diego County Tuberculosis and Health Association.

The 50th annual Christmas Seal sale will continue through Dec. 31, and persons who have not received their Christmas Seals in the mail may obtain them in self-seller coin banks in business establishments throughout the county or by calling the TB Association, CY-6-2179.

Install Low-Cost Soffits

IN BUILDING a house, it's smart to include products which will serve better than the material replaced. A good example is the surfacing of soffits on the under sides of eaves, porch or breezeway ceilings and carport ceilings.

Many home builders have discovered that they can utilize low-cost Masonite Panelwood or Standard Presdwood in preference to the customary material. The high moisture-resistance of Panelwood, Presdwood or Tempered Presdwood and their ability to take excellent finishes qualify these hardboards for such applications.

An added advantage is that all three products may be obtained factory-primed. At a minor premium in cost, primed hardboards can be installed and finish-painted at a lower cost than the unprimed product.

A new hardboard, Panelgroove, is becoming popular for soffit installations. It has 1/2"-wide grooves at intervals of four inches. The pattern is extremely attractive.

Many older houses have open roof overhangs. Their appearance can be greatly improved by the installation of Presdwood soffits, as described in the illustration. This project is one way to participate in Operation Home Improvement.

Poinsettia Week

Poinsettia Week was officially proclaimed by Mayor Charles C. Dail for the week of Dec. 9 to 15. Mayor Dail in his proclamation pointed out that San Diego is the world capital of the universally-recognized Christmas flower—the Poinsettia.

The San Diego Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsors this annual event which is designed to gain national recognition for San Diego as the producers of 90% of the commercial poinsettias. The Jaycees sponsor a Poinsettia Sweepstakes contest to determine the best local flower growers, judging their entries in three classifications, height of plant, the number of blooms on the plant, and the largest flower. The contest entry deadline was Dec. 12.

The Poinsettia Week festivities were set off by the annual Poinsettia Ball Saturday night at the Lafayette Hotel. The climax of the week will be the awards for the Poinsettia Sweepstakes contest which will be presented by the Poinsettia Queen.

Last year the largest bloom measured 20 inches across, and the tallest plant reached a height of 18 feet. The winner for the most prolific plant topped all Jaycee records with 453 blooms.

PHONE BOOK—San Diego service representative Joanne Barnes shows the "new look" of the 1957 San Diego city telephone directory.

Pt. Loma's 'Old Spanish' Lighthouse On Cover Of New Telephone Directory

San Diego's largest telephone directory is being prepared for delivery beginning next week. Pacific Telephone announced today.

The 1957 book is not only the largest ever published but by far the prettiest. The metropolitan edition will have a full-color cover featuring the "Old Spanish" Lighthouse on Point Loma. It represents the first use of color on an alphabetical directory cover.

In Southern California, and is a result of the company's search for something more artistic and varied.

The instructional pages this year will include lists of cities available through direct distance dialing as well as a page of information on its use.

The new directories have over 1,200 pages reflecting a gain of approximately 14,000 alphabetical listings in the county since the 1956 issue.

Printed locally, the book required 11 tons of cover stock and 785 tons of paper for the entire county.

Initial distribution of 333,000 city and county directories is scheduled to be completed by Dec. 22.

Company officials again this year suggested that customers shake out their old books before turning them in to the deliveryman.

O. B. FRIENDLY CLUB

The Ocean Beach Friendly Club meets every Monday at the O. B. Community Center from 10 a.m. until 2:30 p.m.

Any person 60 years old or over is eligible for membership and guests are always welcome. The Christmas party will be held Dec. 17. There will be no meeting on the 24th or the 31st of this month.

Health Is The Best Gift

HEALTH FOR ALL

The Bible tells us it's more blessed to give than to receive. But do you feel blessed when you get to the end of your gift shopping? Or are your nerves frayed to the breaking point?

How can you get through your Christmas shopping with the least wear and tear? Purely physical shopping fatigue can be avoided by wearing comfortable shoes and tailoring your schedule to your own strength. But mental and emotional strains can also be an important cause of tiredness.

Do you normally enjoy shopping? If you don't, you may hate Christmas shopping. For some people, being part of a crowd is hardest. They feel lost, alone and unsafe. Some are seized by a kind of hysteria that makes them rush to the most crowded counters and buy things they don't really want.

Others are oppressed by the vast quantity of merchandise thrust on their attention. They may walk into a department store fully intending to buy a record, become distracted by costume jewelry and bargain blouses and wander in a state of confusion for hours, looking at everything, unable to decide on anything. The result is a condition well known in the art world as "museum fatigue."

Guilt feelings spoil the fun for lots of us. We can feel guilty for so many reasons: for taking a name off the gift list, for spending too little or too much, for giving too little thought to the selection of gifts. Resentment, too, can cause shopping fatigue. You can get a lot more tired buying a gift for someone you don't like than for someone you do like. Yet we go right on giving to people we don't really care about.

Take a frank look at your own reactions. A drastic change in your approach to Christmas shopping may be necessary. You should try to get the greatest possible happiness from your efforts to give happiness to others.

Library That Safety Built

Some people have ships named after them, or cats or dogs. But I've just had a library named after me, and I couldn't be more honored—not just because it bears my name, but because a program of traffic safety was responsible for its existence.

It all began a little over a year ago. Every October, at the National Safety Congress in Chicago, it's my privilege to preside over the Carol Lane Awards for Traffic Safety. These are presented each year to the three women's groups who have done the most towards educating their communities in safer traffic practices.

In 1955, the second place award of $500 in savings bonds and a bronze plaque went to Mrs. Glen Rabb, of Commerce, Texas. Mrs. Rabb is principal of the W. J. Wheeler Elementary School in Commerce, and her winning entry consisted of a three-year safety education program for her school and county. Mrs. Rabb wrote newspaper and magazine articles and generated so much interest that a Safe Driving Week was established in Commerce. She got the cooperation of the other schools in the county to help publicize the Week. The result was a whole community alerted to the importance of traffic safety—and the award for Mrs. Rabb. But her interest didn't end with the award.

She went back to Commerce, and spent all of her prize money on books. She set up a children's library in the community, equipped it with 143 new volumes, a set of Junior Britannica Encyclopedias, a plastic world globe, and a stellar globe with a set of explanatory atlases.

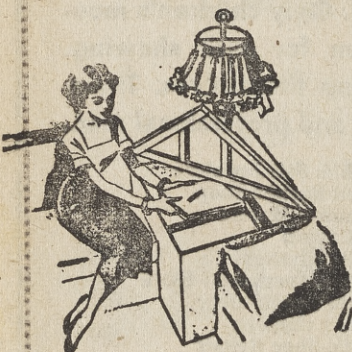

She called it the Carol Lane Library—which makes me proud, not only because it bears my name, but because it was built by safety.

Handy Jim's FIX-UP TIPS For the Home

There's Storage in This Handsome Corner Table

A CORNER table with a storage unit fits neatly into a corner between two sofa-beds, providing a handy place for storing linens and pillows. In a child's room, it makes a fine toy bin and play table.

This table can be constructed of 1 x 2 lumber for framing, Masonite 3/16" Tempered Presdwood for the sides and white Marlite for the top, which opens on the diagonal. A free plan detailing the construction and listing the materials may be obtained by sending a postal to the Home Service Bureau, Suite 2037, 111 W. Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill., and requesting drawing No. AP-8.

The attractive Marlite top provides a durable plastic surface that's resistant to scratches, burns and other abuse. It makes a good place for a lamp, ashtrays and books. An adhesive is used to fasten the top panel to its wooden framework.

In finishing the hardboard, apply first a primer and one or two coats of good grade paint or enamel. If a factory-primed hardboard is used, only one finish coat is needed. All the materials are available at lumber yards. Damp-wiping keeps the plastic-finished Marlite clean.

Secrets of a Model

Usually when we take pictures of food, we have a home economist cook the food in advance. But things are different now. On the job today, conversation went something like this:

"Let's have some baked apples for the next shot," Hank, my husband and favorite photographer, suggested.

"Ready in two minutes," our unflustered home economist announced as she put two unbaked apples in the range.

Two minutes later the apples were baked to perfection—red, juicy, and piping hot.

"Don't touch the oven shelf," Hank cautioned me, "you'll burn yourself."

"Don't be old-fashioned, Hank, it's cool as a cucumber."

"This cooking marvel is the new RCA Whirlpool electronic range. It cooks at high speed with microwave energy that makes a television set work. The food produces its own heat. The interior of the range stays cool throughout."

"It looks like a built-in oven but works like a surface cooking unit as well. Most women say they do 90% of their cooking in it."

"The most amazing thing about this electronic range is the speed with which it cooks. A cake takes three minutes. Hollandaise sauce takes 45 seconds. A steak may be broiled to perfection in 4 1/2 minutes. And a 5-lb. roast is done in 30 minutes!"

Hank raved about the speed and efficiency of this new way of cooking. He doesn't know it yet, but he is about to buy one of these electronic ranges.

Door Bin for Potatoes
THE LOGICAL location for storing potatoes is under the kitchen sink. As described in The Home Craftsman, the potato bin may be fastened to the back of a cupboard door under the sink. Perforations in the sides (not shown), front and bottom of the bin permit air to circulate around the vegetables; such circulation is essential for longer storage. The front panel is a Masonite "Peg-Board" panel. Sides and bottom are lumber, and the back is 1/4" Tempered Presdwood. All the essential dimensions are shown on the accompanying drawing. The wooden sides should be drilled in a pattern in order to provide maximum air circulation. Some 30 holes 3/16" in diameter should be bored in the bottom. Sides, back and bottom should be assembled with glue and finishing nails. The front slides out for easy cleaning. Prime and paint the bin to match the sink, but give the "Peg-Board" panel front a contrasting color.

COMPLETE YOUR SET. Volumes 1 thru 20, Home Illustrated Encyclopedia set are now available. Here is a Christmas gift that will keep on giving throughout the years. Only 99c per volume.

100-Voice Loman Choir Will Sing At Church Council's Yule Program

Ralph Edwards, Hollywood personality and producer of the television show "This is Your Life," will narrate the story of the First Christmas for this year's Christmas program of the San Diego County Council of Churches. The story is based on that told in the Bible by Saints Luke and Matthew.

Announcement that Edwards had accepted the Council's invitation was made by Dr. Wayne A. Neal, executive secretary of the Council.

The program, which will be recorded before a live audience for later radio broadcast, will be held in the auditorium of the First Baptist Church, 930 Tenth Ave., Monday evening, Dec. 17, beginning at 7:30.

Music for the program will be provided by the 100-voice Loman Choir of Point Loma High School under the direction of Robert E. Heninger, director of music for the school.

Master of ceremonies will be Doug Oliver of the KFMB-TV announcing staff.

The entire production will be under the supervision of Carl W. Dewse, Council staff director of music.

As in the past, the program is jointly sponsored by the Council's radio and television commission of which the Rev. John Atwood, pastor of Point Loma Methodist Church, is chairman, and the Council's music commission headed by Fred M. Rigby.

Women's Guilds Plan Party At All Souls' Church

All guilds of the Women's Auxiliary of All Souls' Episcopal Church will meet together on Tuesday, Dec. 18 for their annual Christmas party at 8 p.m. in the parish hall.

Highlight of the evening will be a showing by Warren Beach, director of the Fine Arts Gallery, of slides on historic madonnas in sculpture and painting. A display of locally-owned madonnas will also be featured, announced Mrs. L. L. Gardner, program chairman.

On Dec. 18, Bible Sunday, church members will view different editions of the Bible including a "polyglot" version which contains several languages within the one volume.

K. of C. Announces Children's Party

Point Loma Knights of Columbus will have their second annual Christmas Party for children of members Dec. 23 between 2 and 5 p.m. at Sacred Heart Hall, Ocean Beach.

There will be a program of singing and a play will be given by 11 girls from the San Diego Junior Theatre. Santa Claus will have free gifts for every child. Ice cream, cake and punch will be served.

Anglers Get Red Cod, Cow Cod & Octopus To Boot

Fortunes of deep sea fishermen literally rose and fell with the barometer early this week, but on the whole catches were well above average in spite of strong currents which made it difficult to get down to the more productive deep reefs nine miles west of Point Loma.

The entire production will be under the supervision of Carl W. Dewse, Council staff director of music.

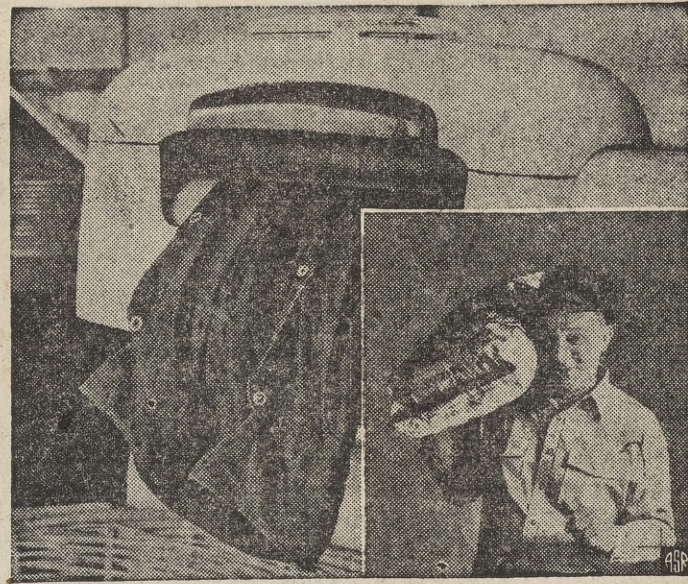

Offshore winds and adverse currents also sidetracked surface experiments scheduled at the Coronado Islands last weekend, but did not wash out a two-day albacore trip booked by the Polaris.

In spite of chop, strong winds and fast currents, anglers did well when they kept the bait near the bottom, which they were able to do most of the time.

Big red cod, cow cod and lings predominated but numerous groupers and some sole also were added to the daily catches, which often, approached the 1000 fish mark.

J. W. Bailey, Richard Corey, C. W. Miner, and H. E. Coats, Ocean Beach, were among the more successful anglers last weekend, each limiting easily on big red cod and lings.

Lloyd Tanner, Riverside, topped off his limit catch with a 30 or 40 pound octopus which wrapped around a cod he had hooked and refused to turn loose until after it had been decked.

Newest work-saver for homemakers is the modern, buttonless work shirt now being sold in all reputable stores carrying work clothing and it gives greater freedom from mending and laundering than has been possible with the conventional button-equipped shirts.

Housewives who have faced regular button repair work over the years are finding these new shirts eliminate many laundering, ironing, and button-replacement problems. Gripper snap fasteners instead of buttons are on the shirt front and cuffs.

Metal snap fasteners do not crack or chip and, of course, button holes with their usual problems of wearing and fraying are eliminated completely.

These new work shirts stay cleaner in use because the wearer does not have to fumble all the way up the front with soiled hands to get such a shirt open. The snap fasteners hold firm and sure for the life of the shirt, yet it takes just a sudden tug to open the shirt all the way. This is considered an important safety feature for men working around moving machinery. If the shirt snaps on something, it would give way rather than pull the man toward danger.
